

trainingunlimited.com.au

Understanding Dementia: What is Dementia?

(25694)

Course Description

Understanding Dementia: What is Dementia? is one of Kineo's three dementia-specific online learning courses. These courses are designed solely for the aged care sector.

This course increases the learner's understanding of life with dementia and its impact. It also provides behavioural training in how to care for and support people living with dementia.

Online learning is a key part of aged care professional development. Because of this, 'What is Dementia?', is designed to fit in with any organisation's training mix. The course can be used as a part of Kineo's Understanding Dementia suite or as a standalone title. The course has a Further Resources sub-menu that can be used for professional development and those that want to take a deeper-dive into the subject.

This online learning course is designed to align with the Aged Care Quality Standards. It has been developed in collaboration with experts, including Kineo clients working in the aged care sector, to ensure the course is fit-for-purpose.

Learning Outcome

This course focusses on the following learning outcomes:

- What the term 'dementia' means.
- The impact on a person living with dementia.
- The need to provide a person-centred approach to care.

Audience and Duration

Course is designed specifically for carers and other health professionals who provide care for a person/people living with dementia.

The online learning is applicable to learners in residential aged care services, home services and flexible care services. This course is suitable for new and experienced carers.

Duration: 20 minutes

Course Features

- Adaptics
- Animations
- Assessments
- Certificate of completion
- Interactive activities
- SCORM deployment available
- Video
- Voice Over
- WCAG 2.0 accessible